TENTATIVE PROGRAM

THE 8th
INTERNATIONAL
SEMINAR

Humanity and Social Activity
in Disaster
Situation

Introduction

Geologically, Indonesia is located in a very unstable area because it lays in 'The Ring of Fire', a belt of seismic and volcanic activity roughly surrounding the Pacific Ocean. As the consequences, large numbers of earthquakes and volcanic eruptions often occur in many regions of the country. Disasters damage local infrastructures, decrease the ability of local systems to meet their basic needs and for the survivors, they may experience threat to their life and physical integrity, exposure to the dead and dying, social and community disruption, etc.

This 8th International seminar, a collaboration between School of Nursing Faculty of Medicine Universitas Gadjah Mada (Indonesia) and Kobe University Graduate School of Health Sciences (Japan), is planned to be held in order to facilitate and give a wider insight for the participants about humanity and social activity in disaster situation.
